

Write Away!

Would you like to develop your writing skills and meet others who share your writing interests?

Saturday, October 21st
10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.
Plateau Conference Room

Crossville resident, Nancy Mitchell, will introduce and conduct a library program for new and established writers!

Each month writers will meet and have an opportunity to read something they have created. Fiction and non-fiction, poetry, short stories, and essays are welcome. Following readings, a discussion will be held offering suggestions and critiques by members of the group.

Time permitting, other discussions will be held on writing topics such as exposition, character development, etc.

Nancy Mitchell has written articles for the Baldwinsville Messenger (Baldwinsville, NY), Baldwinsville Life, and online for International Women of Brass. Mrs. Mitchell, who has a BFA from SUNY Oswego (New York), has also received an award for her poetry submission to the Famous Poets Society.
